FOSSILS FROM PLAIDY.

Mr Milne then exhibited a collection of fossils from the clay beds at Plaidy, King-Edward, and also a number of glacial shells from the same district. The fossils consisted mainly of Belemnites and Ammonites. Mr Milne gave a very lucid explanation of the position in which the fossils and shells were found.

The members examined the specimens with great interest, and expressed their obligation to Mr Milne for the trouble he had taken in exhibiting and explaining them.

Mr GARDEN M. HOSSACK moved a vote of thanks to Sheriff Scott Moncrieff for presiding.
